

Application for review of a Returning to Teaching condition

When a fully registered teacher applies for renewal/restoration and the teacher does not meet recency of practice (100 days of teaching in the registration period) a Returning to Teaching (RTT) condition is applied to their registration.

The approved teacher who is subject to an RTT condition may make a written application to the QCT asking for the condition to be reviewed and amended or cancelled.

A condition may be amended for certain reasons including for example –

- To omit the condition, if doing so is not adverse to the teacher
- For clerical reasons
- In another way that is not adverse to the teacher
- As requested in an application for review of the condition.

For example a review may be sought by the holder of an RTT condition because on their application for renewal/restoration they provided incorrect information by declaring that they did not have recency of practice.

Teachers with an RTT condition who have been teaching outside Australia or in a setting other than a recognised school can apply for a review of the condition, but must demonstrate how their teaching experience meets specific criteria.

Along with this form you should submit certified copies of all evidence you wish to rely on in requesting this review of an RTT condition; for example, statements of service as evidence of recency of practice.

The QCT must, as soon as practicable after being asked to review a condition, review the condition. Following review of the condition, the QCT may amend, cancel, refuse to amend or cancel or impose a new condition. Once the QCT has completed a review of the condition, the applicant will be advised in writing of the outcome of the review.

CANCELLING A CONDITION

IMPORTANT NOTICE: If an approved teacher's registration is subject to an RTT condition, the QCT may cancel the condition if the QCT receives evidence of satisfactory completion by the person of the professional development required to satisfy the condition.

The evidence required is:

- a declaration from the teacher that they have completed all elements of an RTT program and logged this professional development in their myQCT account; or
- a notice from the provider of a completed RTT professional development program; or
- notice from the principal of a school at which the registered teacher teaches, that they have successfully completed the professional development required to satisfy the condition.
